PERSONAL CONGRATS. . .

The thing that is different about the class of '73, whether high school or college, is that anticipation of war is past for all but volunteers entering the service. And that resistance to the idea of unpopular war is no longer vogue, necessary or appropos.

Graduates will be pursuing peacetime ambitions in a world that is apparently more peace oriented among the major powers than at any time in a generation. The isolated conflicts, particularly in Southeast Asia, will continue.

Anyway, it will be interesting that the class of '73 is just about the first graduates of American education to be free of required military obligation since 1946.

Having lived so long at some kind of war, can we stand the comparative quiet of a generation of peace? There is a lot of quiet living and building to be done.

'Midst this environment, we join others in congratulating the classes of '73 on their successes. The prob-

Traffic Mishap Sends Eight To Hospital

A traffic accident early Saturday afternoon described by investigating Patrolman Milton Wright as "almost headon" sent eight people to a local hospital.

The accident occurred on Highway 190 near Silver city, about seven miles east of Cameron.

A. J. Niley Smith of Cameron was driver of one car which was entering the highway from a side road when it collided with a car driven by Elvira Rocha of Rt. 2, Cameron.

Smith was alone in his car and the Rocha vehicle had seven occupants including May Rocha, Teresa Rocha, Isabella Rocha, Martha Rocha, Dominga Rodriguez and Auduria Alvarez, all of Rt. 2 Cameron.

All eight persons were taken to St. Edward Hospital in Cameron, suffering from cuts, lacerations and bruises. One of the occupants of the Rocha car underwent surgery for a gash in the head.

Investment Group Will Purchase Spring Lake Club

An investment group headed by Cameron Attorney Bob Ellett has announced plans to purchase the Spring Lake Country Club (north of Rosebud) from Fred Rector and develop the property into a resort area.

The purchase will include an 82 acre lake, 375 acres of grounds with an Olympic size swimming pool, nine hole golf course and underground sprinkler system, club house and more than 300 lots for resort or weekend home development. The sale also includes water system that serves the Rosebud-Lott School.

Listed in the investment group are Ellett, John A. Watson of Houston, Joe P. Edwards of Killeen, Carroll Glaser and Emory Camp of Rockdale, T. H. Wardlaw of Cameron, Bob Terry and Roy Willaford of Brownwood. Closing date for the purchase has been set for June 16.

MARK END OF SCHOOL YEAR

County and areas seniors are busy practicing for graduation ceremonies set for the end of May and the first of June. Schools have held their awards assemblies with scholarship awards presented to eligible students.

Yoe High School will graduate 106 seniors with commencement exercises set for June 1 at Yoe Field. Baccalaureate service will be held Sunday, May 27 at Yoe Field with Brother Thomas Dusek as guest speaker.

Randy Tumlinson is class valedictorian and Darrell Schneider is salutatorian of the senior class this year.

Eleven seniors at Buckholts High School will graduate in a commencement program Friday in the school gym. Last day of school will also be Friday. Speaker will be Dr. H. M. Dawson, president of Temple Junior College.

Debra Ruzicka is Buckholts valedictorian and Jo Ann Beckhusen is salutatorian.

Rogers will have its commencement program May 31 in the high school gym. Rogers schools will have their last day May 31 and report cards will be picked up or mailed out the following week.

Craig McClure is valedictorian of the Rogers class and Charles Hoelscher is salutatorian.

Debra Davenport as valedictorian and Jan Willingham as salutatorian will lead the Milano High School graduation at 8 p.m. May 25.

Rosebud-Lott High School will hold its baccalaureate service at 8 p.m. May 27 at Cougar Field. The schools' last day will be May 30. Commencement will be at 8 p.m. June 1 at Cougar Field.

Commissioners Eye Radio System

County Commissioners meeting in a called session Monday afternoon heard a description of a new communications system for the county, sponsored by the Central Texas Council of Governments.

Explaining the new radio system was Robert Lowry, district sales manager for General Electric's mobile radio department.

Lowry explained that the new system is going in all over the state with the Criminal Justice Council administering the program which has counties paying one-fourth of the cost, along with cities in the system.

Cameron city council at a recent meeting voted to join the new system, and Rockdale has also passed a resolution to join.

Cost of the county's share would be $9,113.10. Commissioners agreed to ask Cameron and Rockdale to share in the cost of installing a 370-foot tower required by the system.

Lowry explained that the new system would work on the 150 megacycle band, and would be used only by law enforcement officers. He said there would be no congestion on the frequency as is the case now, with various operators using the present frequencies.

The new system will be set up in each county in the state, with one repeater system for the county. Mobile units would be used in law enforcement officers' cars to keep in touch with the base station.

Lowry also emphasized that the system would not involve hiring additional personnel to man the station. He said the sheriff could close his office at night and the police station would be able to accept calls on the system.

Lowry said the county's acceptance of the new system 'is the key to cities participating.

Advantages of the system were listed as stronger signal strength, ability to contact more places, the ability of law enforcement officers to talk to each other across the county, less congestion and interference, and much less maintenance.

Lowry said old equipment could be donated to such organizations as volunteer firemen.

Alcoa Business 'Never Better'

Business has never been better at Alcoa's Central Texas plant. The Milam County smelter -- Alcoa's biggest aluminum-making facility -- is back at full capacity with all eight lines on stream and employment back over the 1600 mark for the first time in two years.

That's the progress report on the area's largest employer given Monday by Fred P. Bergeron, manager of Alcoa's Rockdale Works, before the Cameron Lions Club at the Texan Cafe.

"Last year was really a turnaround period for the U. S. economy and aluminum industry," he said, reminding that 1971 and early 1972 were gloomy times for the American economy and his industry.

He said Alcoa, the world's leading producer of the light metal, wound up having a "substantially better year" than 1971 and that the company appears headed for another good showing this year.

"During the first quarter, Alcoa set all-time company records for aluminum production, shipments of aluminum products, sales and operating revenues," Bergeron pointed out. "Company-wide, our smelters are operating at about 95 per cent of capacity, with supply and demand running neck and neck. It's a far cry from 18 months ago when we faced severe oversupply problems and our smelters were down to 78 per cent of capacity."

Locally, Bergeron said the plant's layoff list was depleted early in the spring and over 100 new people have been hired. He said 185 Cameron residents are employed at Rockdale Works, "which means about 900 of your population depend on the well-being of our Central Texas plant."

"Expansion and modernization have been a way of life for our Milam County plant since it went into production 20 years ago," Bergeron explained. "It's no different now. Construction is getting under way in earnest on a multi-million dollar ingot plant project that will give Rockdale Works greater capabilities and make it more competitive in the Alcoa system."

"You know, we have to compete for business among other Alcoa plants as hard as we do with other aluminum companies. Our corporate headquarters gives business to the plant that can produce the product best and most economically."

Bergeron also touched on a subject he said is becoming alarming to the aluminum industry: charges by a few but vocal environmentalists that aluminum making consumes too much electrical energy.

"The energy crisis has triggered proposals by these people to cut back on aluminum production or shut down the industry altogether and divert power thus saved to more critical uses," Bergeron told the Lions Club. "Like a lot of early cries to clean up air and water overnight, these charges come from some very active and emotional people who soon-

The Big Risk . . .

Class of '73 is matriculating in area high schools in the next few days.

It is the annual crossing of a threshold for thousands of Cen-Tex seniors and several million across the nation.

It is not quite the same for this class as it has been for the past 10 years. No overt war to enter or protest against. Fewer illusions about the future of this country or the world as the U.S. role of necessity changes to co-leadership in merging international interests.

The idealism is there, no doubt, but so is some sophistication, both a finish of modern education and a protection against the requirements of a world youngsters know a lot more about than the generation before.

We congratulate the graduates of '73 in Cameron, Rogers, Buckholts, Milano, Rosebud, Rockdale and Thorndale, those among the tens of thousands of young Texans going beyond grade 12.

It will continue to be a more technical, complicated world, needing better explanation, but more than ever, knowledgeable people who not only risk knowing the world around them, but risk knowing themselves.

A Lot Of Fun . . .

Folk Fete has a proliferation of activity, considering the outline of activity headlined in your Herald of May 21.

Spokesmen will appear on four area television stations in the next two weeks explaining the various ethnic folk and entertainment efforts in Cameron June 8 and 9.

Central Texas will again hear about Milam's diverse background, which comes together each June to find the similarities and fascination of this diversity and to have some fun doing it.

Folk Fete in its fourth year moves to Cameron National Guard Armory as focal point. A range of food, fun, talent await.

Volunteers are still needed, according to Charles Kunz, Fete president this year. Some 25 or 30 are needed to fill spots at ticket counters during the two day affair.

Folk Fete is a lot of fun.

"Low Down" FROM THE Congressional Record

By JOE CRUMP

(A Column for Readers Who Haven't Time to Review the Congressional Record Daily)

FIREFIGHTERS NEEDS LAGS BEHIND POLICE

Rep. Les Aspin (Wis.)
" . . . I am introducing today a comprehensive package of fire prevention and safety legislation. The same legislation has been cosponsored by 65 Members of this House. . .

"Last year alone 210 firefighters died in the line of duty. During the 10-year period of 1960 to 1970, 795 firefighters died — 83 more than policemen killed in the line of duty. In 1970 38,000 firefighters in New York City alone were injured or burned. . .

"One bill provides for the creation of a national fire academy. . .

"A second bill provides the Secretary of Commerce with the authority to make grants to States, counties and local communities to pay up to one-half of the cost of training programs for firemen. Just as the LEAA has paid for further education and training of our policemen. . .

"A third bill allows the Secretary of Commerce to make grants to accredited institutions of higher education to pay up to one-half the cost of fire science programs. . .

"The fourth bill provides financial aid to local fire departments for the purchase of advanced (For example, a Hurst tool that acts like a can opener to pull apart a wrecked car or truck to free trapped passengers) fire fighting equipment. A fifth bill (H. R. 7298) provides funds for purchasing conventional firefighting equipment and for the purchase of self-contained breathing apparatus that could save the lives of many firefighters. . .

"Finally, two bills . . . take dramatic steps forward in fire prevention itself. One would extend the provisions of the current law concerning flammable fabrics to cover construction materials used in the interiors of homes, offices, and other places. Simply put, extremely flammable material could no longer be used to build buildings or furniture. It is highly flammable material that can turn a minor fire into a deadly holocaust. . .

CRUMP'S GRASS ROOTS COMMENT

Those seeking immediate funds to update fire-fighting equipment and training should look to the section, "Permissive Expenditures" under the Revenue sharing guidelines. These funds are, of course, dispersed by local government officials.

Summer Classes Readying At UT

Approximately 20,000 students are expected to enroll during the summer session of The University of Texas.

Registration will be held June 4-5.

Classes for the first six-week term will extend from June 6 through July 11, with examinations to be held July 12-14.

Students who plan to attend only the second term will register July 16. The second six-week classes are slated July 17 - Aug. 22, followed by final examinations Aug. 23 - 25.

Penal Code Revision Nearing Final Passage

By Bill Boykin

The first overall revision of the Texas penal code in more than a century is nearing final passage as the legislature plows through its last full week of regular session duties.

House members promptly went to work on the bill after the Senate passed it last week.

The revision is the product of a seven-year study ramrodded by the State Bar of Texas.

Generally, the code pulls together the thousands of criminal laws scattered through the statute books. It groups felonies and misdemeanors into classes, ranging from most severe to minor offenses and fixes a range of punishment for each.

Many separate statutes are consolidated into comprehensive sections, and laws covering a variety of attempted crimes are grouped under a general attempt provision.

The new code increases maximum penalties for certain crimes of violence. Murder without malice, for example, could carry a maximum term of 20 years compared to five under present law.

Penalties for some other crimes were lowered. Minimum, as well as maximum, punishment is provided in each category of felony.

One of the major changes in existing law is the definition of insanity as applied to defense in criminal cases. The new definition terms insanity as a mental disorder or defect that prevents one from conforming his conduct to requirements of the law. The old "M'Naghten rule" terms a person insane who does not know right from wrong or understand the nature and consequences of his acts.

Lawmakers went into Friday and Saturday sessions in an effort to reduce the tremendous pile of unfinished legislation. Much of it will remain unacted on.

OPEN RECORDS BILL

The Senate passed its version of open records legislation, returning it (HB 6) to the House for consideration of amendments.

The bill would require most records to be available for public inspection and that copies be provided promptly at cost.

An amendment would allow agencies to require prepayment for copying records of many pages.

Exceptions are provided for private correspondence and communications of elected officials and information related entirely to personnel matters within the agency.

OIL ALLOWABLE

Texas Railroad Commission for the 15th straight month set the June oil allowable at 100 per cent.

Commissioners responded to soaring, record demands for crude oil.

Purchasers requested 3.8 million barrels a day for June, an increase of 33,931 over May.

Exceptions again were made for East Texas field, 86 per cent, Kelly-Snyder, 76 per cent and Tom O'Connor, 70 per cent. Several other fields were limited to 80 per cent.

EXXON announced plans to increase refining capacity by 350,000 barrels daily, due mainly to additions to its Baytown refinery.

A former commissioner, William Murray, said the city of San Antonio may not be able to get through the summer unless it can obtain additional oil for its electrical service.

as, and urges all citizens to rally behind their national leaders in the quest for a full and accurate accounting of all MIAs.

He said that "the number of captured Americans recently released by the Communist leaders in Indo-China is only 30 per cent of those who have been listed as Prisoners of War (POW) or Missing in Action (MIA), and the other 70 per cent, or over 1,300 men, have not been accounted for by the Communists," and, "those who may be still alive endure secret captivity and its degradation and deprivations."

POLES DISAPPEAR

Pennsylvania Avenue, traditional parade route in Washington, D. C., has disappearing traffic lights. Before parades, the poles in the center of the street are removed and the holes they leave covered with metal plates.

COURTS SPEAK

The Court of Criminal Appeals overturned a murder conviction of a Houston man because it was impossible to prove who actually fired the fatal shot in a motel shootout.

The State Supreme Court held a druggist can be liable for refilling a prescription for eye drops that caused cataracts, but the drug company that made the drops cannot be, because directions indicated the medication was for short-term use, not for a year.

Atty. Gen. John L. Hill's consumer protection division got permanent injunctions against Austin and Amarillo companies involved in illegal chain-referral sales schemes.

AG OPINIONS

Atty. Gen. Hill held constitutional a controversial compulsory oil and gas unitization bill (HB 311).

Hill also held that a person may be employed both as a University of Texas law professor and a researcher for the State Constitutional Revision Commission.

In other recent opinions, Hill held:

* A bill requiring the state comptroller to make sales tax reports to cities is constitutional.

* A bank applying to be a county fund depository must submit along with its bid a statement of a legal rate of interest for time deposits of all amounts and lengths of time. A bid cannot be corrected later to include the information if it is first omitted.

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear editor:

Everybody's talking about the far-flung effects of Watergate on the political scene, but there's one aspect of it in another area I haven't seen mentioned anywhere.

It's the effect it's going to have on school children. How are they ever going to remember on their history exams who was Secretary of Defense for 3 weeks in 1973 before he switched to head of the FBI, or was it the other way around? Who was Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare for two months before he became . . . thunder, I've lost track of it myself.

Somebody's got to stabilize this government if we don't want nine-tenths of the kids failing history in the next few years. Think back, what sort of grade would you have made if somebody was re-locating the state capitals every two or three weeks, with the Texas capital say move to Idaho and the Idaho capital moved to may-be Cameron, and so forth?

Of course you could always be fairly sure where the national capital was. Name one state that'd allow it in.

To change the subject, I read in a newspaper last night that the telephone company people in some places have raised the price of a call in a pay phone from a dime to fifteen cents. You reckon they're about to price themselves out of the market?

I mean, you jump the cost of conversation by 50 per cent and you're bound to bring on a boycott by the housewives of this nation. I can see their picket signs now: STOP TALKING. OR DON'T ANSWER, LET IT RING. There will be a dead silence throughout the land. It's awful to contemplate.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

The Family Lawyer

Pied Piper

Little Tommy raced across the street to buy a strawberry cone from the ice cream truck. But as he started back, he stepped into the path of an oncoming car. Tommy was seriously injured, and his family sued the ice cream company for having failed to warn him of the danger.

At the trial, the company protested that its driver had no obligation to take care of other people's children. But the court ruled otherwise. Ordering the company to pay damages, the judge said:

"The sense of haste is purposely aroused in the children by the tinkling of bells and flashing of lights. The responsibility of one who provokes into action the natural recklessness of children ought (to) be proportionate to the danger he creates."

There have been a number of these "Pied Piper" lawsuits in which a street vendor has been held liable for tempting a child into jeopardy. However, some courts have rejected such claims, at least when special circumstances come into the picture.

Consider another case, also involving injury to a youthful ice cream purchaser. This time, the boy had walked some distance around the rear of the truck before starting back across the street. Moreover, he was a vigorous 10-year-old, the kind of youngster ordinarily well able to cross alone.

Denying damages, the court said the driver could not fairly be blamed for assuming that the boy was "on his own."

Furthermore, the victim himself may be guilty of negligence. Thus:

An 11-year-old boy leaped onto the running board of an ice cream truck, out of the driver's line of vision. When the truck began to accelerate, the boy fell off to the pavement.

In the lawsuit that followed, he acknowledged that he had been aware of the risk he was taking. Turning down his claim, the court said:

"All the essential ingredients of contributory negligence were present."

Repair Facility Grows In Israel

By Colin Bickler

TEL AVIV — A small Israeli repair and maintenance facility has grown in less than 20 years into a multi-million-dollar concern and a key, if often secret, contributor to Israel's defense establishment. The government-backed Israel Aviation Industries (IAI), which celebrates its 20th anniversary in October, maintains, overhauls and modifies nearly 30 different types of civilian and military aircraft frames and engines, up to and including Boeing 747 jumbo jet airliners and sophisticated fighter bombers. It can repair and modify 50,000 aircraft accessories and 5,000 types of systems refurbish modern jet airliners for resale and has now entered the world market with its own home-produced aircraft, a highly effective sea-to-sea missile and a new lighting system for helicopter formation flying at night.

The directors will not comment on foreign reports that it is also about to produce Israel's first jet warplane. But a tour of the plant by foreign newsmen showed that it was not beyond the company's capability, provided sufficient funds were available.

Much of what the plant does has kept under tight security wraps during the visit. But the head of the firm's manufacturing division, Shalom Ariav, acknowledged that 80 per cent of his sections work is on defense contracts -- much of it helping the Israeli air force to keep its foreign-supplied warplanes flying and modifying them to special needs, as well as producing missiles. A notice at the guarded entrance to the works warns employees: "Even on holiday, your tongue should not be free. Guard the secrets." In Hebrew, the slogan rhymes. In any language, the message is clear and questions on sensitive topics were apologetically turned aside during the tour. Aerospace industries of any size are usually associated with large countries because of the high capital costs involved. Israel with only three million people, claims its business is going ahead steadily. Punch In Pork Pork is always a good buy in terms of the important food nutrients it supplies. The top food source of thiamin, it also is a generous contributor of other B vitamins (riboflavin, niacin, B<sub>6</sub> and B<sub>12</sub>). Like other meats, pork supplies high quality, body building protein and iron. Unwrap or Rewrap? To unwrap or rewrap—that is the question in the mind of many a homemaker when she brings steaks home from the store. The answer is — do neither for short storage. The transparent wrap on prepackaged meat is designed for refrigerator storage of one to two days. For longer storage, overwrap or rewrap in freezer film or foil and store in the freezer at 0°F or less.

Agent Testing Weed Controls

By Bill McCutchen

Cotton weed control demonstration was initiated May 16 and 17 on Bill Arthur's farm near Cameron. Frank Kratochvil is working this land and assisted Dave Weaver, Extension Cotton Weed Control Specialist, Rodney Kruse and myself putting out the various tests.

This demonstration includes three incorporated (preplant) chemicals and eight pre-emergence chemicals and was planned last winter by the crops committee of the Milam County Program Building Committee.

The incorporated materials include Treflan, Cobex, and CGA-10832. The pre-emergence herbicides include Caporal, Cotoran, Ka-rmex, Lasso, Probe, Bay Kue 2236, Hoe 2991, and Zorial.

Also tested was a band post-plant incorporator that could possibly be used at planting with a blackland planter.

CROP SITUATION

At long last Milam County farmers got a break in the weather and cotton planting got into high gear last week. It was too wet to plant well most of the week but farmers weren't waiting for ideal conditions after seven months of wet weather keeping them out of the fields.

Grain sorghum and corn is growing very well with sunshine and warm days. The greenbug is not expected to cause much damage for a while with excellent growing conditions and beneficial insect buildups.

Farmers also had an opportunity to cut and bale oat and clover hay last week. A wet spring produced excess winter pastures which will be well utilized as a hay crop.

February, March and April Coastal bermuda plantings are doing well in most instances with some souring and loss of stands in excessively wet areas. Some are still considering coastal sprigging but the odds are against success this late in the year.

Many truck croppers have had a hard time getting going this year. Some have replanted watermelons, cantaloupes, and tomatoes twice because of waterlogged soils and poor germination.

Peanut planting is still a little while away as most will try to plant about mid-June.

Outdoor Ideas

Ideas for gazebos, trellis, yard light and other outdoor projects are in a 14-page booklet available for 15¢ in coin from Western Wood Products Assn., Dept. 537-P, Yeon Bldg., Portland, Or. 97204.

Herbicide Fate Is Explained

The fate of herbicides (chemical weed killers) is of vital concern to everyone interested in protecting the environment. What happens to these materials after application?

"As soon as herbicides are applied, numerous forces in the environment begin to take action," explains Garlyn Hoffman, range brush and weed control specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Decomposition begins from exposure to living organism, other chemicals, air and sunlight. Transfer processes also occur. Herbicides may be absorbed and exuded by plants and animals and absorbed by soil particles."

According to Hoffman, the key process that determines the ultimate fate of herbicides is that of adsorption--attaching to particles of soil. Adsorption of herbicides depends on the type of soil, size of soil particles, organic matter content and numerous other soil characteristics. The rate of adsorption also depends on the particular composition of the individual herbicide, notes the specialist.

"All the various properties of herbicides are spelled out on the manufacturer's label so that agricultural producers and other users can apply them correctly without endangering the environment," points out Hoffman. "Gross misapplication and overuse are the main problems. With normal use, herbicides will break down into safe or nontoxic compounds and will not contaminate the environment."

Canned Consumption

In recent years, the annual U.S. consumption of canned meat averaged about 14.5 pounds per person—a record level. During the past 20 years canned meat consumption has increased more than five pounds per person.

Americans Eat Better

People eat better in America today than anywhere else in the world. One important reason is because farmers and ranchers boosted beef production a whopping 2½ times in the past 20 years — despite often discouraging prices. During this time U.S. beef consumption has increased from 56 to 115 pounds per person per year. Consumption is still going up and is expected to reach 130 pounds per person by 1980.

MAKES STARCH

The average tree manufactures about 20 pounds of starch a day.

Gate posts of western wood should be set at least four feet deep, in gravel or concrete.

FARM and CITY

BEAURIEL, above, is one of two full-blood service age Limousin bulls purchased by Brushy Creek Ranch of Waxahachie from the Canadian government, the other being Bandito. They are the first two full-blood Limousin bulls born in North America from full French parents. Bandito will become the Brushy Creek herd sire while Beauriel will be sold. Brushy Creek is owned by Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Singleton, Jr.

Plant Producers Larger In Size

Texas commercial cut flower and foliage plant producers are becoming fewer in number but larger in size, according to Dr. H. B. Sorensen of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

Between 1966 and 1971, the numbers of Texas foliage producers dropped from 103 to 61, a 41 percent decrease. This was twice as much as the decrease in the other 23 foliage producing states.

At the same time, however, the average size of the area in production increased by more than 80 percent. In 1971, Texas plant producers had 1,573,000 square feet of land devoted to nurseries, four percent of the nation's total.

The demand for cut flowers has grown rapidly in Texas. Between 1966 and 1971 producers increased their sales of standard chrysanthemums by 28.6 percent. The rest of the nation averaged an 8.3 percent increase.

Pom-pom mum sales increased by more than 50 percent in the same period, double the national average. Potted mum sales went up by almost 50 percent but less than the 58.1 percent increase nationwide.

The production increases also went along with quite an increase in value, almost double the 1966 figure. Sales increased from slightly over $2 million total to $4.5 million during the five year period, representing a 92 percent increase.

Foliage plant sales increased 112 percent to a value of $1,804,000 during the same period. The value of chrysanthemums, pom-poms and potted plans was $2,713,000, an 80 percent increase.

The figures, Sorensen said, point to increased efficiency and better profits for Texas growers.

Farmcast

Compiled From Sources Of The Texas Department of Agriculture John C. White, Commissioner

Are You One of the 24,000? ... Harvest Slows In One Area, Nearing Peak In Another ... Hog Cholera Strikes Again ... Sheep On Feed Is Down But Up.

Now being distributed by the mailmen are 24,000 crop questionnaires to that many number of farmers throughout the state. If you get one of the questionnaires you are requested to fill it out as accurately as possible and return it as soon as possible.

These questionnaires form the basis of information about Texas crops. The information is also used in making decisions on farm programs. None of the reports will be used on an individual basis. They are compiled into county, district, and state totals.

The Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Services urges you to fill out and return the crop questionnaire so that a complete and accurate picture of Texas agriculture can be put together.

If you are one of the 24,000, you'll be doing yourself and all other farmers in the state a good turn, too, by answering and returning the questionnaire.

WHILE harvest of Texas onions has peaked in the Lower Rio Grande Valley, the Winter Garden-San Antonio area is in the midst of onion harvest.

Based on May 1 reports, the Texas early spring onion crop is five percent below last year's crop; the yield is reduced 15 percent from last year due to weather.

Harvesting has also been completed in the Coastal Bend area. In the San Antonio area, the crop remains in generally excellent condition with good yields being reported.

TEXAS broke a nationwide 83-day free period of hog cholera recently when two counties were quarantined due to a verified case of that swine disease.

Hidalgo and Cameron counties in the Lower Rio Grande Valley are now under state and federal quarantines. They are designed to sharply limit swine movements until veterinary medical officers and livestock inspectors can verify the health of all swine herds in the vicinity.

Hog cholera is a highly infectious virus disease usually fatal to swine, but it does not affect other animals or humans.

Federal import regulations already prohibit the entry of live hogs, fresh pork and pork products into this country from Mexico. The new quarantines restrict swine movements within the state and between Texas and other states.

Meanwhile, the national hog cholera advisory committee is currently looking at ways to speed up the eradication of hog cholera. A total of 43 states are now classified as "hog cholera free" under the nationwide eradication program.

SHEEP feeders with a lot capacity of 2,000 head or more had 87,000 sheep and lambs on feed as of May 1, the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service reports.

Senior Citizens Day Set

By Christine Laws

May 27 is Senior Citizens Day in Rockdale. The Milam County Governor's Committee on Aging is sponsoring a Senior Citizens party out at the New Salem H. D. Club House in Fair Park at 2 p.m.

Mrs. Clyde Holliman is chairman of the county committee and in charge of the overall program.

The entertainment that afternoon will include the Regeneration Singers from Rockdale and a Roaring 20's Skit from the Thorndale 4-H Club.

This activity is sponsored by the New Salem H. D. Club and the Rockdale Ideal H. D. Club.

This is the second Senior Citizens Party held in Milam County during the month of May. On May 5th a Senior Citizens Party was held in Cameron at the Community Center. A total of 60 Milam County Senior Citizens participated in this event. Entertainment was furnished by the Cameron German Folk Dancers and the Thorndale 4-H Club Share - the Fun Skit.

The party was hosted by the Tracy-Duncan H. D. Club First Cameron H. D. Club, Cameron Sunshine H. D. Club and the Branchville H. D. Club.

These programs are open to the public and everyone is encouraged to attend and participate.

New Legal Guide Offers Advice For Pre-Retirees

People who put off seeking sound legal advice usually discover that the delay has multiplied both their problems and the price they will have to pay an attorney to solve them, according to a free Legal Guide prepared for people in the 50-plus age group by Action for Independent Maturity (AIM). The Guide, designed to provide middle-agers with a basic knowledge of their legal rights and responsibilities, emphasizes the fact that sound legal guidance in handling property, financial resources and family affairs can determine independence, security and peace of mind now and in the future. While most people delay talking to a lawyer except as a last resort -- because of general distrust of lawyers or a fear of high fees, the Guide points out that initial 30-minute consultations with attorneys can be arranged through local Bar associations for as little as $3 to $15, depending on the locality.

"For you to try to deal with the vast complexities in law would be foolish," the booklet warns. The Guide provides basic information on selecting a lawyer, preparing a will, starting a business venture, buying or selling a home, and protecting credit standing. It points out, for instance, that consulting an attorney should be considered a "must" in connection with any agreement to live in a special housing development, condominium, or cooperative. In addition, the Guide explains the difference between civil and criminal law and outlines the rights of both the accused and the victim in any violation of criminal law. The Legal Guide is one of a series of booklets published by AIM to help pre-retirees plan for successful living. For a free copy of the "Legal Guide to Independent Living," write: Legal Guide, AIM, 1225 Connecticut Avenue, N. W., Washington, D. C. 20036.

Poage Raps Legislation To Increase UN Donations

Cong. W. R. Poage this week in his newsletter criticized legislation that will have the United States financing 40 percent of the cost of a United Nations study of ecological problems over the world. "To me this is totally unjustifiable in view of the President's action the first of this year in impounding $210 million which Congress had appropriated to carry out this work at home," Poage said. "Nor do I think that we are ever justified in paying 40 percent of the costs of a United Nations program when we account for only about 10 percent of the population of nations in the UN, and particularly when those very nations are driving down the value of our dollars charging that we are overspending. "If we have enough money to finance the removal of thorn brush in Tanzania, it would seem to me that we could afford to help Texas farmers remove mesquite and thereby improve production of needed beef at home. "If the other nations of the world don't think our dollars are worth as much as their currencies are, then I can't believe we can afford to pay 40 percent of these costs. The basic law has long limited US contributions to the UN to 25 per cent, and in my opinion this is high. I, therefore, voted against this expenditure of US money in foreign lands."

Poage said he is convinced that we can best serve the United States and the world by maintaining the solvency of this country.

Parties Honor Graduates

With commencement exercises scheduled at Yoe High School and Cameron Junior High next week, graduation parties head the list of social engagements this month.

Mr. and Mrs. James D. Camp honored Gwyn Chancey with a swimming party and patio supper at the home of Mrs. Emory Camp Saturday night. Patio lights and gaily covered tables decorated the garden surrounding the swimming pool for the Yoe High seniors and their guests.

The W. T. Pearson cabin on the San Gabriel River was the setting for a recent barbecue honoring Yoe High graduates Becky Wilkinson, Gwen Ivey and Gwyn Chancey. Hosts for the informal gathering were the honorees' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ivey, Mrs. Doris Chancey and Mr. and Mrs. James A. Wilkinson.

Mr. and Mrs. James Wilkinson and Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Raymond, Jr. honored their sons, Brian and Richard who will graduate from Cameron Junior High School with a party at Cameron Country Club Friday evening.

Parents of Junior High graduates will host a party Wednesday, May 30, at Methodist Fellowship Hall for the CJH eighth grade class.

Personal Mention

Visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Tittsworth are Mrs. Tittsworth's mother, Mrs. Sylvia Love of San Diego, California and her aunt Mrs. Ruth Serodino of Commerce, Georgia.

Van Eanes of Patuxent River, Maryland was in Cameron last weekend visiting his family, the Bill J. Eanes'.

Mrs. Roy Wohleb, Sr. has returned home from Oklahoma City where she visited her daughter, son-in-law and family, Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Futschik, Michael Wayne and Melissa Gail.

FOLK FETE DUO - Mrs. Jimmy Woodum blocks out the squeaks from her companion's (Mrs. Forrest Sapp) fiddle in a fast paced skit advertising Cameron's 4th annual Folk Fete. The skit will be performed live on Channel 3 (Bryan) at 3:30 p.m., Thursday, (today), Channel 10 (Waco) at 12 noon Monday, May 28, and Channel 6 (Temple) 12 noon May 28, and Channel 6 (Temple) 12 noon Wednesday, May 20. Background for the skit depicting the 6 ethnic groups featured in Folk Fete was designed by Jack Tumlinson.

ANNIVERSARY - Mr. and Mrs. Joe Zaverel celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary Saturday, May 19, with a dinner at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Temple. Sixty-one families registered for the dinner and a large crowd attended the dance that night.

Four Homes In Salado Tour

Salado Showcase, a tour of four contemporary homes and Tyler House in Salado from 2 until 6 p.m. June 3 will benefit the Crusade for the Arts in Temple. Proceeds will be used for seating in the new Azalee Marshall Cultural Activities Center.

The homes on this tour include: Ridgeway, the Robert Culter home; The Oaks, the home of Colonel (ret.) and Mrs. Clifton Pyle; the Evans Home, Mr. and Mrs. John Evans owners; the Mac Sherrill Townhouse, whose owner has developed Mill Creek; Tyler House, home of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Wilks.

Special features of the Showcase include twelve Yaga metal and papier mache sculptures displaying clothes from the shop of Grace Jones. These sculptures will be on display at the Culter home. Also tea will be served at the Pyle House to those on the Tour. Tickets for the tour are $2.50 per person.

Miss Perrin Honor Grad

Miss Patricia Kay Perrin, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. E. Douglas Perrin of Cameron, received a Bachelor of Science degree in nursing from the University of Texas at San Antonio. Miss Perrin graduated Magna Cum Laude (with high honors) at a commencement convocation San Antonio UT Medical School auditorium Saturday evening.

Miss Perrin is a member of Sigma Theta Tau, honorary nursing sorority.

Degrees Awarded Cameron Area Students

Five Cameron area students received college degrees in commencement ceremonies last weekend.

Kerry Briggs, a graduate of Yoe High School and former editor of the 'Yoe Chant' received a Bachelor of Applied Science (Computer Science) from Mary Harden Baylor College, Belton.

Mahalia Petty, daughter of Mrs. Beatrice Petty, Route 1, Cameron, received a B.S. degree in social work from Texas Woman's University during its annual Spring Commencement program Saturday, May 19.

Murray-Go-Round

By Tom Murray

WYNN'S GOT IT ALL:

Jimmy Wynn and President Nixon have had parallel careers, it seems. When critics are about to count'em out, they do something so spectacular the cranks retire and they get on with their respective chores. Wynn's is playing the outfield for the Houston Astros and hitting those game-winning, tape-measure home runs.

When Wynn hit that one Sunday at the Astrodome, to win a 8-7 struggle with the season's Cinderella Giants, the Former Cincy Farmhand had been in one of his patented, miserable slumps. None of this is news, of course.

But, Jimmy Wynn is an intensely interesting baseball player. He is, it seems, either every close to the best in the major leagues or near the very worst. That is his record. Look it up.

Subject to violent and extended slumps, Jimmy nevertheless has it all. He, first of all, has speed. He has power with the bat, quick wrists and can be an excellent outfielder. His arm is way above average. Jimmy is that rare combination of a power-hitter who can also steal bases. And, does. He can work a cautious pitcher for an easy walk.

What more would you want? Nothing, except for this young fellow to stay out of those awful hitting slumps which affect him so terribly. But neither he, nor the diamond experts, can explain what turns that hitting success off and on so violently for him.

ASTROS CHOSE JIMMY

The Astros don't announce it, but back there in 1969 they made a vital decision. If they were to move up as a contender, some super young talent would have to

Ladies Tennis Tourney Set

The Ladies Town and Country Tennis Association will sponsor a ladies doubles tournament beginning at 9 a.m. Saturday, May 26 at the Yoe High tennis courts.

Prizes will be offered to first and second place finalists. A $1 entry fee will be charged for non-members.

Four Boys Given Camp Week

Four boys from Cameron will be given a free, one week vacation this summer at The Salvation Army's Camp Hoblitzelle near Dallas, according to Alvis M. Coleman, the Salvation Army Service Unit camp chairman.

Boys chosen to attend the camp this summer are Robert Homan, David Villarreal, Lynn Mitchell Jr. and Raymond Alvarado.

They will leave for camp on July 1.

"This will be an excellent experience for these boys who have never been to a real camp," Rev. Coleman said. "At Hoblitzelle they will enjoy boating, hiking, archery, horseback riding, fishing, swimming, handicrafts, movies and baseball as well as worship services and Bible study."

All organized activities are supervised by coaches and counselors. The campers are housed in brick and redwood cabins and receive well-balanced meals in the camp dining hall.

"Each boy's trip was financed by the Cameron Service Unit Committee with donations from private citizens in our community," Rev. Coleman said.

Sheguit, Barron Top Season Stats

Pat Sheguit led Yoe hitters in a 16-2 season for a AAA Zone championship with a .448 average, hitting 26 base hits in 58 times at bat.

And John Barron struck out 117 in a 7-2 season to lead the three man Yoe pitching staff while Gary Thweatt pitched an 8-0 season and Gary Hornung pitched 10. He is credited with two saves while Barron is credited with one in relief.

Ricky Sapp hit .391 to follow Sheguit in Yoe hitting, according to team statistics released by Coach Ed Cauley. Sapp led in RBIs with 24 and homeruns with 5. Thweatt led in doubles with four.

The Yoemen batted a team average of .307 for the season, producing 170 hits, 148 runs, which included: 17 doubles, three triples, 128 RBIs, 65 walks, 116 strikeouts and 15 sacrifices.

Barron scored the most runs with 28 while Thweatt batted .359 and Barron .355. Hornung hit .307 for season.

Gene Kopriva hit .365, Jeff Smithman .361, Joe Trdy .346, Ernie De La Rosa .315. Randy Sapp hit 3 for 7 during the season and Smithman pitched 1 inning, allowing 2 hits, 1 run and 1 walk.

Taylor was the only team to beat the Yoemen, twice in the District playoff, 10-0 and 8-3. The Ducks were AAA state champions in baseball in 1972.

New Park Rules Now Enforced

State park superintendents across Texas are getting ready for the spring and summer surge of visitors.

This year, rules governing conduct in parks have new teeth.

As approved by the Parks and Wildlife Commission and effective Jan. 1, 1973, parks personnel designated by the department will have enforcement powers and full authority to see that regulations are kept.

For years, it was more a matter of individual conscience of the visitor than enforcement.

Violations of parks rules can now carry a maximum fine of $200.

New parks rules adopted by the commission are based on ones which have been in effect for many years with some modifications and modifications.

Visitors will be furnished with a condensation of all rules when they enter a park or a full text upon request, and the rules will be posted in a prominent place.

Parks Operations supervisor Johnny Buck anticipates little problem this summer with the new rules or the capability of more stringent enforcement.

"Mostly, the new rules are common sense," said Buck. "A person, for the most part, will be within the law if he makes a conscientious effort not to disturb his neighbor and to protect park property."

Buck also reminds visitors that from May 1 through Sept. 15, the use of overnight facilities in all parks is limited to 14 consecutive days.

Also, a visitor may not leave a camp unit unoccupied during the first night after camping equipment has been set up, or leave a camp unattended for more than 24 hours thereafter without permission from the park superintendent.

With increased demands on all outdoor recreation opportunities, occupancy limits must be established to give the maximum number of citizens a chance to use the state parks.

Walschak Garner

J. A. Walschak, 82, of Route 2, Buckholts, died in a Cameron hospital at 4 a.m. Monday.

He was born March 19, 1891 in Buckholts and was a retired farmer. He was a member of Hope Lutheran Church, the SPJST Lodge, and Sons of Hermann.

Funeral was held at 2 p.m. Tuesday at Marek - Burns - Laywell Funeral Home, the Rev. Ervie Braun officiating. Burial was in the Corinth Cemetery.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Satsa Walschak of Buckholts; one son, Lionel Walschak of Rio Grande City; one daughter, Mrs. Dana (Beatrice Kestenbaum) of Cameron; two sisters, Miss Mary and Miss Naomi Walschak, both of Buckholts; eight grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

Peters

Miss Artye Peters, 75, of Buckholts, died Saturday in a Cameron nursing home after a long illness.

Funeral was at 3 p.m. Sunday at Marek - Burns - Laywell Funeral Home. Burial was in the Corinth cemetery.

Miss Peters was born in Lott and was a retired medical secretary.

Surviving are a sister, Mrs. J. B. Lewis of Buckholts; a niece, Mrs. Bill Gause of Gause; and a nephew, Douglas Lewis of Houston.

Young Ordained As Deacon

ROGERS

Coleman Young, Music Director of the First Baptist Church of Rogers, was ordained by the church Sunday morning May 20 as a deacon of the church.

In the special ordination service which was held during the morning worship hour, Dr. Grady Metcalf of Temple, long time pastor of the First Baptist Church of Temple and now retired, preached the ordination sermon and gave the charge to the church.

The Reverend L. B. Parks, Chaplain of the Veterans Administration Center in Temple gave the ordination prayer. Dr. W. E. Smith of Temple gave the special music for the program, accompanied by Mrs. Coleman Young at the piano. The local pastor, the Reverend Shelby Jones, was moderator, and led the Ordaining Council in questioning Young.

After the questioning period, the Ordaining Council, made up of all deacons and ordained ministers present, voted unanimously to recommend to the church that they proceed with the ordination. The Church then ordained Young as a deacon in the church. The "Laying on of hands" by the Ordaining Council was a significant part of the program.

B. F. Harbour, Chairman of the local Board of Deacons, gave the benediction. Mrs. Milton Keith was organist.

Smile Girl Contest Opening

WACO

This is the first call for Central Texas girls to enter the 1973 Heart O' Texas Fair "Smile Girl" contest.

The contest is open to single girls who reside or attend school in Central Texas and who will be high school juniors or seniors in September, plus 1973 graduating seniors.

First and second round eliminations will be held in Waco on July dates to be named later. Finals are always a part of the annual Fair Press Party in August.

"Smile Girls" receive a long list of honors including the privilege of meeting in person the star of the fall fair and rodeo. Finalists are selected on poise, charm and personality, beauty, prettiest smiles and on impromptu talks.

Entry forms are available at the Cameron Herald office; at the Coliseum office in Waco, or may be obtained by writing: "Smile Girl Contest," P. O. Box 7581, Waco, Texas 76710. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Like a good neighbor, State Farm is there.

The Secret That Was

Scriptures selected by the American Bible Society

Sunday	Monday	Tuesday	Wednesday	Thursday	Friday	Saturday
1 Samuel	Romans	Romans	Romans	Romans	Galatians	Hebrews
1:8-28	3:21-31	4:1-9	5:1-11	8:1-11	3:6-25	10:1-17

When someone shares a secret, it's on its way to becoming no secret at all. And yet it doesn't cease to be a secret until you have shared it.

When Jesus preached in the wilderness, hundreds came miles to hear Him. They wanted to share His secret . . . the secret of God . . . the secret of Man and God.

So right there in the wilderness, it was on its way to becoming no secret at all. Except that, even today, not everyone has shared it.

Academically every intelligent person knows what Christianity is all about. But each Sunday all over this world someone is finding in church a new strength, a new purpose, a new faith. For the heart of Christ's message brings a human soul into harmony with a mighty and loving God . . . whose power gives our lives direction . . . whose concern gives our lives meaning.

The secret that was is still a secret, until YOU share it too.

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill
Attorney General

AUSTIN

You've probably heard the complaint from a friend: "It wasn't the money that worried me when I lost my wallet. It was the fact that I had my credit cards in it!"

The average Texan has at least one credit card, and some carry several - issued by oil companies, retail merchants, charge services, or banks.

The credit card is a great convenience for the consumer - a handy way to buy at a bargain and pay later; the means to take a trip and pay for it over an extended period of time, and its use provides a methodical system for keeping business and tax records.

A person who is issued a credit card usually contracts to pay the issuing firm for the goods and services received upon billing. In some cases, the credit card usage enables the consumer to spread out the payments over a specified time (such as six, twelve, or eighteen months for an airline ticket), or - as in the case of many retail or bank services - put the payments on a "revolving credit" basis.

In the latter event, federal law requires the card issuer to make full disclosure to the customer of the payments requirement. Under Texas law, the merchant can charge an interest or "service" rate of up to 1 1/2 per cent per month of the unpaid monthly balance.

Yes, credit cards are a convenience, but, as the Texas Bankers Association warns, they should be used with "self discipline," or they can become more of a burden than a boon.

One of the procedures for safe and sane credit card use urged by the businesses which issue them is to keep a careful record of the cards you hold, together with the number of each, in case of loss or theft.

To be doubly safe, make duplicate copies and put one in your strong box, and one in an easily accessible place. If the card issuer has notified you of a number to call in case of loss, write that down, too.

The U. S. Congress and the Texas Legislature have attempted to protect the credit card holder from some of the problems he could encounter if he lost his card.

The Truth - in - Lending law limits the liability of the holder to $50 if his card is lost or stolen and someone else makes charges on the account. Under that law, the company issuing you the card must notify you of that liability limitation, and furnish you with a means of identifying proof of ownership. That is the reason most companies now provide a space for your own signature on the credit card.

DON'T FRAY CORDS
Don't run electrical cords under rugs or furniture where they will become worn and dangerous, advises Patricia A. Bradshaw, housing and home furnishings specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University.

Under Texas law, it is a felony - punishable by a penalty of up to $1,000 and or two years in the penitentiary to steal, counterfeit or forge a credit card, or to buy or knowingly use a lost or stolen or expired credit card.

Rep. Kubiak Reports On Legislation

Rep. Dan Kubiak reported on the status of several bills, the House action quickening as closing date approaches. "Overall, the Legislature has shown that it meant business about governmental reforms," he said in his weekly newsletter. "We will at least have some kind of ethics code on which we can make later improvements. We have passed an open meetings law and an access to public records law. We have required reporting of House speakership campaign spending and made many, many improvements in the operations of the House and its committees."

The House last week approved another kind of reform by passing a general overhaul of state controls on municipal water and utility districts. Kubiak said these reform bills spell out stringent controls to insure that the operation and benefit of these districts will be where it should be - in the hands of the taxpaying residents of the district.

Gov. Briscoe vetoed a bill which would have made the fiscal year of all school districts coincide with the state's September through August fiscal year.

The House approved a bill giving local school boards the right to let all teachers have "duty free" lunch periods.

Another bill passed provides for "second thoughts" about purchases from door-to-door peddlers such as magazine salesmen. The bill provides that a buyer shall have three days to rescind - without cost - any contract made with a door-to-door salesman.

called to wish her a "happy mother's day." Mrs. Harris's brother and sister-in-law, Charlie and Harriet Jones of Dilley were unable to come and attend the homecoming this year due to their health.

Lewis of Buckholts, one niece Mrs. Bill Gause of Gause and one nephew, Douglas Lewis of Houston. Buster Smith passed away in a Houston hospital Saturday night. He was a brother to Mr. Ruby Smith and Mr. Johnny Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Reed Ogden of Houston visited Sunday with the Alfred Coats family and Mrs. Mildred Ely.

New moldings for doors, window frames, baseboards and other uses look like real wood but are made mostly from common salt. Georgia-Pacific Corp. says response from do-it-yourselfers as well as professional builders who use the non-splitting, sawable and nailable PVC (polyvinyl chloride) foamed moldings has been excellent. The basic ingredient for PVC is chlorine, which the company makes from salt.

Young Ordained As Deacon

ROGERS

Coleman Young, Music Director of the First Baptist Church of Rogers, was ordained by the church Sunday morning May 20 as a deacon of the church.

In the special ordination service which was held during the morning worship hour, Dr. Grady Metcalf of Temple, long time pastor of the First Baptist Church of Temple and now retired, preached the ordination sermon and gave the charge to the church.

The Reverend L. B. Parks, Chaplain of the Veterans Administration Center in Temple gave the ordination prayer. Dr. W. E. Smith of Temple gave the special music for the program, accompanied by Mrs. Coleman Young at the piano. The local pastor, the Reverend Shelby Jones, was moderator, and led the Ordaining Council in questioning Young.

After the questioning period, the Ordaining Council, made up of all deacons and ordained ministers present, voted unanimously to recommend to the church that they proceed with the ordination. The Church then ordained Young as a deacon in the church. The "Laying on of hands" by the Ordaining Council was a significant part of the program.

B. F. Harbour, Chairman of the local Board of Deacons, gave the benediction. Mrs. Milton Keith was organist.

Leon Hale Named Ambassador

Noted novelist, editor and writer Leon Hale, of Bryan, has been named an Ambassador to the second annual Texas Folklife Festival to be held September 6-9 at the University of Texas Institute of Texan Culture's HemisFair site in San Antonio.

In announcing the honor, O. T. Baker, festival manager, explained that Hale is one of 56 festival Ambassadors in the state who are the direct contact between their community and the state festival, receiving all information on tickets, participation and activities.

Hale is a specialty writer for the Houston Post and contributing editor to Texas Parade, concentrating in delightful, humorous character sketches. Editor of several books on Texas lore, including Bonney's Place, a contemporary novel, Hale taught creative writing at Sam Houston State University, Huntsville. His special assignment for the festival is to help locate fascinating, odd and unique participants.

The new Ambassador described the four-day festival as a state-wide party staged by the U. T. Institute of Texan Cultures in San Antonio which embraces 26 of the state's major ethnic groups. It depicts and visualizes the ways Texans of all races and national origins have fun. The first festival in 1972 involved 2,163 participants from 102 towns and had an attendance of 63,565.

Smile Girl Contest Opening

WACO

This is the first call for Central Texas girls to enter the 1973 Heart O' Texas Fair "Smile Girl" contest.

The contest is open to single girls who reside or attend school in Central Texas and who will be high school juniors or seniors in September, plus 1973 graduating seniors.

First and second round eliminations will be held in Waco on July dates to be named later. Finals are always a part of the annual Fair Press Party in August.

"Smile Girls" receive a long list of honors including the privilege of meeting in person the star of the fall fair and rodeo. Finalists are selected on poise, charm and personality, beauty, prettiest smiles and on impromptu talks.

Entry forms are available at the Cameron Herald office; at the Coliseum office in Waco, or may be obtained by writing: "Smile Girl Contest," P. O. Box 7581, Waco, Texas 76710. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Scriptures selected by the American Bible Society

Sunday	Monday	Tuesday	Wednesday	Thursday	Friday	Saturday
1 Samuel 1:8-28	Romans 3:21-31	Romans 4:1-9	Romans 5:1-11	Romans 8:1-11	Galatians 3:6-25	Hebrews 10:1-17

When someone shares a secret, it's on its way to becoming no secret at all. And yet it doesn't cease to be a secret until you have shared it.

When Jesus preached in the wilderness, hundreds came miles to hear Him. They wanted to share His secret . . . the secret of God . . . the secret of Man and God.

So right there in the wilderness, it was on its way to becoming no secret at all. Except that, even today, not everyone has shared it.

Academically every intelligent person knows what Christianity is all about. But each Sunday all over this world someone is finding in church a new strength, a new purpose, a new faith. For the heart of Christ's message brings a human soul into harmony with a mighty and loving God . . . whose power gives our lives direction . . . whose concern gives our lives meaning.

The secret that was is still a secret, until YOU share it too.

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill
Attorney General

AUSTIN

You've probably heard the complaint from a friend: "It wasn't the money that worried me when I lost my wallet. It was the fact that I had my credit cards in it!"

The average Texan has at least one credit card, and some carry several - issued by oil companies, retail merchants, charge services, or banks.

The credit card is a great convenience for the consumer - a handy way to buy at a bargain and pay later; the means to take a trip and pay for it over an extended period of time, and its use provides a methodical system for keeping business and tax records.

A person who is issued a credit card usually contracts to pay the issuing firm for the goods and services received upon billing. In some cases, the credit card usage enables the consumer to spread out the payments over a specified time (such as six, twelve, or eighteen months for an airline ticket), or - as in the case of many retail or bank services - put the payments on a "revolving credit" basis.

In the latter event, federal law requires the card issuer to make full disclosure to the customer of the payments requirement. Under Texas law, the merchant can charge an interest or "service" rate of up to 1 1/2 per cent per month of the unpaid monthly balance.

Yes, credit cards are a convenience, but, as the Texas Bankers Association warns, they should be used with "self discipline," or they can become more of a burden than a boon.

One of the procedures for safe and sane credit card use urged by the businesses which issue them is to keep a careful record of the cards you hold, together with the number of each, in case of loss or theft.

To be doubly safe, make duplicate copies and put one in your strong box, and one in an easily accessible place. If the card issuer has notified you of a number to call in case of loss, write that down, too.

The U. S. Congress and the Texas Legislature have attempted to protect the credit card holder from some of the problems he could encounter if he lost his card.

The Truth - in - Lending law limits the liability of the holder to $50 if his card is lost or stolen and someone else makes charges on the account. Under that law, the company issuing you the card must notify you of that liability limitation, and furnish you with a means of identifying proof of ownership. That is the reason most companies now provide a space for your own signature on the credit card.

Under Texas law, it is a felony - punishable by a penalty of up to $1,000 and or two years in the penitentiary to steal, counterfeit or forge a credit card, or to buy or knowingly use a lost or stolen or expired credit card.

Rep. Kubiak Reports On Legislation

Rep. Dan Kubiak reported on the status of several bills, the House action quickening as closing date approaches.

"Overall, the Legislature has shown that it meant business about governmental reforms," he said in his weekly newsletter. "We will at least have some kind of ethics code on which we can make later improvements. We have passed an open meetings law and an access to public records law. We have required reporting of House speakership campaign spending and made many, many improvements in the operations of the House and its committees."

The House last week approved another kind of reform by passing a general overhaul of state controls on municipal water and utility districts. Kubiak said these reform bills spell out stringent controls to insure that the operation and benefit of these districts will be where it should be - in the hands of the taxpayers residents of the district.

Gov. Briscoe vetoed a bill which would have made the fiscal year of all school districts coincide with the state's September through August fiscal year.

The House approved a bill giving local school boards the right to let all teachers have "duty free" lunch periods.

Another bill passed provides for "second thoughts" about purchases from door-to-door peddlers such as magazine salesmen. The bill provides that a buyer shall have three days to rescind - without cost - any contract made with a door-to-door salesman.

called to wish her a "happy mother's day." Mrs. Harris's brother and sister-in-law, Charlie and Harriet Jones of Dilley were unable to come and attend the homecoming this year due to their health.

Cambodia Offense Threatens

By John Parcell

PHNOM PENH

Reuter -- The current communist offensive in Cambodia has shattered hopes for an early peace settlement in this war-torn country and threatens to tilt the whole balance of the Indochina conflict.

The U. S. Air Force has returned on a large scale to a war which most Americans would prefer to finish and the entire U. S. Indochina policy has been called in question.

All the indications are that swift developments since the signing of the Vietnam ceasefire in January have taken everyone by surprise, including Hanoi and the Cambodian communist.

It now seems that the overwhelming success of the communist offensive launched the following month was not anticipated.

The rapid deterioration of the government army and the renewed political fumbling of President Lon Nol's regime have taken the communists further than they hoped. But they have been unable to cash in on their sudden progress.

Fears of an all-out frontal assault on Phnom Penh have therefore evaporated. Military analysts believe the massing of record numbers of communist troops around the capital last month aimed only to tie down and erode the government army.

But as the communists moved in the army crumpled almost along the entire front line.

Whole battalions disappeared from their posts. Officers had to be rewarded with promotions before going off to fight across the Mekong River only three miles from the city center.

Corruption and political meddling has reduced the army's morale to its lowest level since late 1971 -- when its last major offensive into central Cambodia was obliterated in a North Vietnamese counter-attack.

The names of thousands of "Ghosts" killed or missing in action still pad out the monthly pay sheets. Thousands of well-dressed officers -- known to the Cambodians as "city flower soldiers" -- hold sinecures well away from the front line.

Of a nominal payroll of 240,000, the government can field only 30,000 troops -- five divisions -- capable of sustained front-line combat.

Some of the units are the equal of any in Indochina, but these are being worn down by the appalling casualty rate of the past three months.

An average of 500 men are being killed and 200 listed missing in action each week on the government side. Most of the casualties are due to shell fragments rather than bullets -- and index of the troops' reluctance to come to grips with the communists.

The current communist offensive is among the most successful and economical campaigns launched in Indochina since the departure of the French colonial power nearly 20 years ago, but its very success has presented problems for the communists.

The young self-styled Cambodian Liberation Army, formed only over the last three years by the North Vietnamese, is evidently both politically and militarily unprepared for an all-or-nothing battle for the capital.

Its advance therefore stopped short outside the suburbs, where sporadic shelling took about 100 civilian casualties.

Former head of state Prince Norodom Sihanouk, who leads the anti-government forces from exile, said in a recent interview his troops would not directly attack the capital.

Echoing a dictum of Chairman Mao Tse-tung on guerrilla warfare, he said his forces would prefer to wait for Phnom Penh to fall of its own accord "like a ripe fruit."

No doubt this also reflects the thinking of North Vietnam, which still provides an estimated one-quarter of the manpower for the war in the form of logistics units, artillery and reserves of experienced combat troops.

When the battle for Phnom Penh takes place -- if, indeed, there is a battle at all -- the Cambodian communists will have to do their own fighting, and be prepared to take over the administration of the country at once.

Astronauts Wearing Gold Suits

By Mary Bubb

CAPE KENNEDY Reuter -- What the well-dressed astronaut will be wearing aboard Skylab is a nifty golden fabric number that is much more comfortable than clothing worn on previous missions.

The three astronauts inside the orbiting workshop/laboratory will be able to work and relax without cumbersome space suits because the air and pressure inside Skylab is fed from external tanks.

Although the Skylab space wear doesn't quite come up to the glamorous ensembles worn in Flash Gordon films, it has an outer-space look and woven with a golden-biege fabric.

The golden color was a happy accident, rather than design. The fire proof fabric is only made in gold and black. The space agency clothing experts chose the gold.

The contoured, waist-length jacket is the snappiest item of all. Zipped up the front, it has an American flag emblem on the left arm, the NASA emblem on the upper right front, and the crew emblem and name tag on the upper left front. It is designed like a mod version of the Eisenhower jacket.

The pants are a bit baggy with full legs, but were designed that way for comfort. There are large pockets on the thigh and calf portions so the astronauts can keep tools or other gear handy.

One innovation about the pants is a zipper that runs around the leg above the knee so that they can be transformed into walking shorts length.

The knitted short has short sleeves and a mock turtle-neck collar, with one pocket. Cloth boots completely cover the foot and ankle.

West African Countries Suffering 5-Year Drought

By Anne Rubinstein

ROME

Reuter -- Six west African countries currently suffering the severe effects of a five-year drought, are only now coordinating efforts to find a solution to the threat of mass starvation and destruction.

"The responsibility is a collective one" E. H. Hartmans, Dutch-born director of the agricultural services division of the Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO) says.

The fact that efforts have so far been dispersed "may even have contributed to the overall degeneration" the expert on African agriculture adds.

A large area of western Africa -- the Sahelian zone shared by Mauritania, Senegal, Mali, Upper Volta, Niger and Chad -- is now in its fifth year of drought but it was not until two months ago that the governments of the countries involved first declared themselves a disaster zone and asked for international help.

Millions of animals have already died of starvation and an unknown number of people must have suffered a similar fate.

But even if figures could be obtained for this the governments concerned would be reluctant to release them because, as Hartmans explains, Africans are a proud people whose leaders are acutely conscious of developing their countries.

Five of the six Sahelian countries -- Chad is the exception -- have now set up a permanent interstate committee for coordination of all drought-control measures.

This committee, based in Ougadougou, Upper Volta, represents the first time that a coordinated effort has been made to solve the drought and famine in the area. And this week the Upper Volta minister of agriculture, Captain Antoine Dakoure, requested that the FAO appoint a permanent technical adviser to the committee.

Hartmans is optimistic that this type of overall program controlling the number of livestock together with crop patterns is the only way to deal with the situation on a long-term basis.

The committee will probably have far-reaching powers, but its establishment now has been possible only because the African governments themselves have realized the need for such a body.

While the FAO has been aware of the deteriorating situation in the area for some time, it can act only when requests for such action come from the governments concerned.

The problem is most acute in the Sahelian zone -- the board belt of arid land extending some 1,900 miles along the southern edge of the Sahara. But it is also threatening areas further south in the Sudan zone.

The Sahelian zone has an average annual rainfall of 4-12 inches with an even smaller yield in the extreme north of the region, closer to the Sahara.

South of this is the Sudan zone with an average annual rainfall of 12-24 inches and still further south is the tropical rainfall zone with 24-52 inches annually.

When these figures are compared with a European average of 27.5 - 40 inches it becomes apparent that the area is an exceptionally dry one even at the best of times.

West German Changes World On New Map

By Klaus Jonas

BONN

Reuter -- A West German historian has set out to change the world radically -- at least as far as its image on traditional maps is concerned.

Dr. Arno Peters of Bremen, who calls himself an all-round historian and private scholar, has worked for 10 years to fashion a new projection of the three-dimensional earth on a two-dimensional map.

And he has hopes that his revolutionary "orthogonal map of the world," as he calls it, will be adopted by West German schools and eventually by the United Nations as the most accurate and up-to-date projection.

Peters said here recently he was annoyed by the "injustice" the 400-year-old Mercator projection -- which is still in use everywhere in the world -- did to developing countries to the advantage of areas populated by whites.

He pointed out that on the Mercator projection, which he said was a "relic from colonial times," Europe occupies a much greater space than it actually deserves and appears, in fact, the center of the earth.

Peters said Mercator, a Flemish geographer whose real name was Gerhard Kremer and who finished his projection in 1569, had "during the epoch of Europeanization of the world distorted its shape in the coarsest fashion."

He told a press conference: "most people nowadays don't know how wrongly informed they are. The developing nations were simply cheated out of their real size."

He is quick to offer examples. On the Mercator projection Europe with its 3.7 million square miles appears bigger than South America, which has an area of about 6.8 million square miles and is in fact nearly twice as big as Europe.

Scandinavia, on the map, appears bigger than India, which is in fact three times as big as Scandinavia. The hugely blown up Greenland looks three times as big as Australia but is in fact only one-fourth the size of Australia.

Peters said the Mercator projection -- for its period an accomplished work of learning which, contrary to the customs of the time, no longer placed Jerusalem and Bethlehem in the center of the earth -- also erred in distances.

The fruit of Peters' 10-year labor is a world map that is apt to elicit a grin from first-time viewers, with regions near the Equator strangely elongated and near the polar regions squeezed together and flattened.

But Peters says he can prove that all countries, continents and oceans are presented in their actual size and location relationship to one another.

a tribute...

to American agriculture. We appreciate this industry, by far the most efficient and quality-oriented food producing system in the world. The free enterprise system and the family farm have made possible a lower priced food diet than any other culture has experienced in history. Progressive technology and excellent management have provided the high quality and wide selection of food available today.

The people of the United States spend a comparatively small percentage of their total family disposable income for food costs. In 1950, a full 24% of the average American family's personal income was spent for food, compared to only 15.7% in 1972. In no other industrial country was this percentage so low in 1972: Germans pay 22.5%, Italians 31.9%, Japanese 33.2%. In other countries, the food is far below American standards, the cost is more, and the quality and variety are less.

Thus, we express publicly our appreciation for a job well done. We are pleased that after too many years of depressed incomes, the agriculturist -- our ranchers and farmers -- is finally enjoying a fair return on both investment and labor.

WHAT'S BEHIND THE PRICE OF MEATS?

Supply and demand set the price for meat regardless of production costs. Rising or high prices encourage an increase in production. However, it takes a long time for more meat to reach your local store after the farmer decides to increase production. It takes between two and three years for more beef and pork to be available for retail stores.

Less than one half of a beef is available as "take home" cuts. A thousand pound steer yields a 615 pound carcass to the packer. The retailer then must trim an additional 183 pounds of fat, bone and waste to sell you about 432 pounds of beef. The choicest rib and loin cuts — rib roasts and rib, T-Bone, Porterhouse, sirloin and filet mignon steaks — account for only approximately 25% of the saleable meat.

From a market size hog, approximately 210 pounds, the packer will receive a 150 pound carcass. An addition 30 pounds of fat for lard, bones and waste further reduce the amount to 120 pounds of pork for retail sale. The choicest loin cuts — chops and tenderloins — are about 13 pounds if the total.

We must price beef and pork so that it all sells and we are not left with some of the less popular cuts. Retail prices must also cover the price paid to the producer, cost of processing, refrigeration, transportation, taxes and labor, and other business overhead.

One of the most important ways to save is DO NOT OVERCOOK. Meat will lose flavor, juices and tenderness. Cook at a low 275 degrees for best results. Use a meat thermometer when oven roasting. 140 degrees for rare; 160 degrees for medium; and 170 degrees for well done.

Heat May Cause Malformed Baby

By Peter Mosley

LONDON

Reuter--The simple question of body temperature could prove as culpable as a drug like thalidomide in producing malformed babies, researchers believe. Animal experiments indicate that a slightly high temperature during early pregnancy might be responsible for a large number of congenital defects.

About two in a hundred babies are malformed, even if only slightly. The science of what causes this called teratology, after the Greek word for monster, and it has been growing swiftly since the thalidomide tragedy led to the birth of hundreds of deformed children.

Drugs like thalidomide, called teratogens -- more than 1,500 have now been identified -- are thought to account for about half of the malformed babies that are born. For the other one per cent, no cause is known.

But the World Health Organization, largely as a result of findings which an Australian scientist stumbled across about 10 years ago, has just ordered a detailed study of the possible teratogenic effects of high body temperature, called hyperthermia, in pregnancy. And a growing number of researchers believe this could account for a fairly large part of the mystery one per cent of deformities.

There is also some suggestion that hyperthermia in pregnancy could result in more subtle damage to the child, impairing its intelligence to a degree that would not be classified as deformity.

The alarm springs from observations by Dr. Marshall Edwards, of Sydney, Australia. During unrelated experiments at his laboratory in the early sixties he noticed that guinea pigs housed temporarily in uninsulated sheds while awaiting construction of air-conditioned units produced a disproportionate number of deformed offspring after hot weather.

He went on to repeat the effects under more controlled experimental conditions, and found similar results with rats, mice rabbits, hens and sheep. For years, no one paid much attention. But then evidence began to accrue from other sources as well. Two Finnish researchers, Jukka Hakosao and Lauri Saxen, reported in 1970 that congenital malformations of the nervous system had reached a peak after a 1957 outbreak of influenza -- which usually causes a high temperature.

Other studies indicated a link between the season of a child's birth and its intelligence, tentatively suggesting that hot weather during pregnancy could have a damaging effect.

Dr. Edwards, of Sydney University's department of veterinary medicine, warned mothers that high temperature sauna baths during pregnancy may contribute to miscarriages, stillbirths and malformations.

Now, amid the rising tide of concern, the World Health Organization has sponsored further animal experiments in two unnamed laboratories in New England and California -- deliberately unnamed, because the world body wants to avoid unwelcome and perhaps alarmist publicity in this matter.

The laboratories will use rhesus monkeys, the first time primates have been used in these experiments.

Market Report

There were 650 cattle and calves consigned to the Cameron Livestock Auction Thursday compared to 1,196 last week and 700 last year. Slaughter cows were 50 to 100 lower, Slaughter bulls weak.

Feeder steers 50 to 1.00 lower, steer calves 50 to 75 lower. Feeder bulls 1.00 to 2.00 lower, feeder heifers 1.00 to 2.00 lower with full decline on fleshie offerings. Heifer calves 50 to 1.00 lower. Stock cows and pairs sharply down. Demand was good.

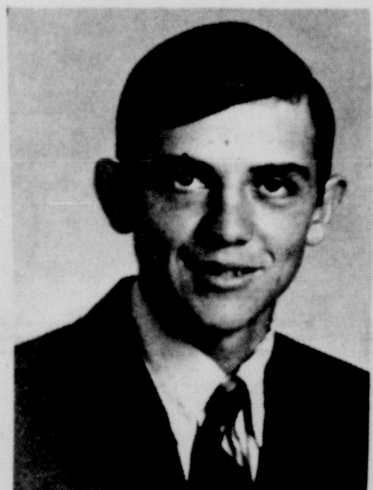

Slaughter cows utility 29 to 32.75. Slaughter bulls, high dressing utility 40 to 43.50, utility 38.25 to 41. Feeder steers choice 77 to 82, good 68 to 74.50.

Feeder bulls choice 73 to 78.50, good 65 to 68. Feeder heifers choice 58 to 62. Cow and calf pairs good 20 to 400.

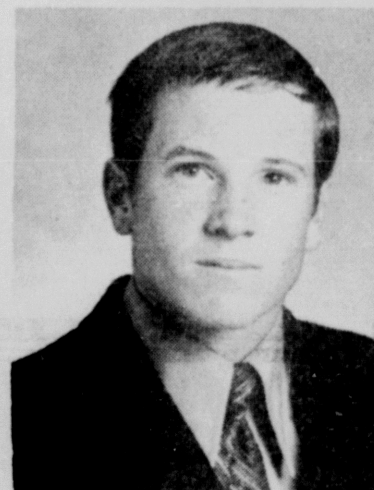

Hog receipts 414 with heavy gilts fully 3.00, sows steady. US 1-2 barrows and gilts brought 38.50 to 38.90. Sows, US 1-3 brought 28 to 32.

Low Salinity Causes Problem At Marineworld

GALVESTON

Over 50,000 lbs. of salt have been added to the open salt water circulation system at Galveston's Sea-Arama Marineworld, in the past 30 days. According to Dr. Ken Gray, Sea-Arama Marineworld's curator and staff veterinarian, salinity in the Gulf of Mexico has been down due to the flooding of the Mississippi River and the abnormal amount of rainfall in this area.

Normal salinity rate in the Gulf of Mexico is 3% or 30 parts per thousand. Salinity has been as low as 1.2% and has averaged 1.6% since November.

The main concern in the low salinity is the effect of the lack of buoyancy for the dolphins and killer whale housed at the marine attraction.

"These animals live constantly in the salt water which helps to support the animals' body weight. When the salinity drops this puts more stress on their bodies because they have to support an abnormal amount of weight," said Gray.

According to Gray, another problem could develop lop due to the sluffing of the animal's skin. In normal salinity the skin is sluffed about 200 times more than in a human being. In low salinity, the skin is sluffed much faster, causing small pockets of air in the skin resulting in more heat.

The Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission recently closed the harvesting of the oyster beds in Galveston Bay due to the lack of salinity.

As far as this affecting any other life in the Gulf, Gray believes it probably won't affect them, because the animals are able to move into deeper water where the salinity is higher.

SUPER FIR TREES

New super Douglas fir trees developed by research ecologists for reforestation of commercial timberlands are five times larger in their first year than trees the same age that sprout from seeds developed haphazardly by Nature, according to Georgia-Pacific Corp. foresters.

Beer Battle Brews In Europe

By George Vine

BONN

Reuter--Britain and West Germany now find themselves on opposite sides in a battle over beer that is brewing up between the nine members of the European economic community.

Beer is big business in West Germany as well as a hallowed institution and the country's 1,800 independent brewers fear that community plans to harmonize Europe's brewing laws could lower the high standards that have made German beer among the best in the world.

A strict law in West Germany dating from 1516 lays down that beer may only be brewed from malted barley, hops and water.

But neighboring countries are not so particular. They make their beer from any type of grain and then add chemicals.

The dispute over what constitutes beer has been fermenting for three years but, while the European community was restricted to the six original members, the West Germans, who produce about 2.17 billion gallons each year and are by far the largest brewers, were able to hold their own.

With the entry of Britain, Denmark and Ireland, however, they fear the scales are weighted against them.

Of the new members, says Rolf Hellex, spokesman for the German Brewers Federation, Britain and Ireland line up with France, Italy and the Benelux countries in favor of relaxing the high German beer standards, while Denmark would prefer to have no restrictions at all on what goes into beer.

The community commission in Brussels has indicated that so-called "European beer" should be permitted to contain up to 30 percent of either rice, maize, potato starch, millet or manioc.

The mere thought of such "lesser brews without the law" makes Germans shudder. But the community points out that German brewers would not be forced to adopt the new standards.

They could continue using nothing but barley and hops if they wish, but the Germans, whose annual turnover amounts to some 2.35 billion dollars fear that European beer, being cheaper, would force them to lower their standards in order to compete.

The Germans maintain that some of the beer produced in other countries, which permit chemicals, sugar, syrup and even tannin to be added, tastes like cardboard and gives you a hang-over.

In their campaign for pure beer they have the support of the agriculture minister, Josef Ertl, and the farmers federation who fear the demand for barley will sink if Brussels has its way.

The trade unions and consumer associations are also behind them.

The West Germans point out the inconsistency of combating chemical pollution of the environment and enforcing pure food laws on the one hand while at the same time setting aside one of the oldest pure food laws in existence.

Funeral Directors Launch Advertising Campaign

By Peter Kiernan

NEW YORK

Reuter -- America's funeral directors have launched a national advertising campaign aimed at convincing the public that the traditional funeral is the only way to go.

It is the first time in its history that the National Funeral Directors Association has mounted a country-wide advertising campaign to woo customers and comes at a time when increasing numbers of people are opting for cremation.

Also making inroads into the once-inviolable realm of ceremony that ends with a headstone in a peaceful cemetery are progressive cemetery authorities who are allowing everything from bicycle paths and hiking trails to picnics on their property.

The funeral directors, who also plan regional newspaper ad campaigns, are running full-page advertisements in the nationally distributed Time magazine.

One black-and-white full page ad shows a distraught young woman and the caption reads, "But I've never made funeral arrangements before."

There is a clip-out coupon which can be mailed to the Association's headquarters in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, in order to receive brochures dealing with death.

Howard C. Raether, executive director of the Association, said in a recent interview some of the more than 14,000 members were growing concerned about the trend toward immediate disposition of bodies.

He said the campaign aims at stressing the "positive" aspect of funerals, and wants to reach the educated and affluent classes.

It is, said a New York crematorium manager, the educated and affluent classes who are turning to cremation. It is cheaper--about half the cost of the average funeral--less of a burden on the family, and more practical in a society in which traditional religious concepts have eroded.

"A lot of people don't want to burden their families," the manager said. "They would rather have people send a donation to a worthwhile cause than flow-ers to a traditional ceremony."

The number of people opt-ing for cremation has risen steadily over the past few years, from 67,300 in 1963 up to 120,000 in 1972.

Leading the trend toward cremation are the western states, California in particular, which accounted for nearly a quarter of all cremations.

"But California always sets the trends," said Earl Finkler of the American Society of Planning Officials, who recently completed a study on the multiple uses of cemeteries.

He said that cemetery boards are "rather sensitive" on the subject of whether they are attracting fewer clients these days, but added that in any case the percentage of cremations versus traditional burials is not yet making a noticeable impact on the graveyard.

More evidence is the loos-ening up of regulations concern-ing the use of some of the estimated two million acres controlled by ceme-tery authorities across the United States.

"We are running short of open space and recreation areas," warned Finkler, "and the cemetery stands as a generally untapped re-source."

"Some cemetery interests are starting to feel the pres-sure from those who think that their lands are too val-uable just to used for the dead."

As a result, there has recently been a once un-thinkable trend by liberal cemetery authorities to al-low their lands to be used for a variety of recreation-al purposes.

Many cemeteries have pools or lagoons; once set aside for contemplation and reflection, some authorities have stocked the pools with several varieties of fish and opened them to the public.

Louvered wood shutters with bi-fold panels are scaled to de-emphasize high basement win-dows.

Next Steak Rarer Than You Think

That next steak you eat may be "rarer" than you think.

"Regardless of the way you like your steak cooked, you're getting a 'rare' commodity," emphasizes Dr. Ed Uvacek, livestock marketing specialist for the Texas Agri-cultural Extension Ser-vice.

Why is steak, or all beef for that matter, so rare? "It's a simple matter of time," points out the Texas A&M University specialist. "It takes about two-and-a-half years to produce a steak."

Uvacek explains it this way. A cow produces only one calf in 12 months. The calf is weaned at six months of age and turned to pasture for another four to six months. Then it goes to a feedlot for six months to be fattened on a high grain ra-tion. Finally, at about 1,000 pounds of weight, the animal is sold to a packer for slaughter.

Well, at least that's a thousand pounds of beef, you say?

"Not by a long shot," Uvacek hastens to point out. "A lot of weight from the animal is lost in slaughtering and processing. A 1,000-pound animal produces only about 48 pounds of sirloin steaks."

A 1,000-pound steer that grades "choice" will pro-duce about 600 pounds of car-casses. Take away the fat, bone and waste and only about 444 pounds of edible beef remain.

The specialist is concern-ed that consumers today are not aware of the time and costs involved in beef pro-duction. "Increased produc-tion has made beef available to more consumers now than ever before. Back when only the wealthy could afford ex-pensive cuts of beef, there was little concern over prices."

SEERSUCKER
Seersucker blends pro-vide cool, classic looks for spring and summer. They feature stripes and plaids, box and multi-hued patterns, and even wool-like summer tweeds.

SAVES WASTE
Prepackaged orange juice, only one example of today's processed foods, keeps 180,-000 tons of peels and pulp out of New York City's waste each year, says Georgia-Pacific Corp.

TSTI Officials Support Bilingual Job Training

WASHINGTON, D.C.

A member of the Board of Regents of the Texas State Technical Institute, Joe J. Garza of Harlingen, and the president of State Tech, Dr. Roy Dugger appeared before the Subcommittee on Em-ployment, Poverty and Mi-gratory Labor of the U. S. Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee in Wash-ington, D. C.

The purpose of the appear-ance by the State Tech rep-resentatives was to speak in support of the proposed Sen-ate Bill 414, entitled Biling-ual Job Training.

The bill was introduced in the U. S. Congress on Janu-ary 18 of this year by Tex-as U. S. Senator John Tower. Among the 17 co-sponsors of the bill is Texas U. S. Sen-ator Lloyd Bentsen.

The measure calls for grants to provide bilingual job training; training of in-structors for bilingual occu-pational education; and re-search in methods, mater-ials and techniques in pre-senting the training. It calls for 20 million dollars for the fiscal year ending June, 1974, and 40 million dollars for the next year. It includes 60 million dollars for the third year of the project.

If it is passed as sub-mitted, 65 per cent of the funds would go for training grants.

Twenty-five per cent would be used for teacher training, and ten per cent would be used for the research pro-jects.

Garza told the group today that the Rio Grande Cam-pus of State Tech was created "to provide the educationally neglected Mexican Ameri-cans in our State with oppor-tunities to move from the hazards of underemploy-ment and migrant condi-tions."

Garza said that since 1969, at least two thousand per-sons per year have bene-fitted from the availability of bilingual job training in the Rio Grand Valley Texas. He added that the number of job training offer-ings has increased signifi-cantly and presently the Rio Grande Campus of Texas State Technical Institute at Harlingen prepares its stu-dents for careers in areas as diverse as upholstery on the one hand and laser electro-optics on the other.

Throughout his presenta-tion, Garza cited specifi-c cases where graduates of this type of technical educa-tion have vastly improved their earning power.

He praised the bilingual instructors on the Harlingen facility, but pointed out that funds are needed to keep this type of training alive and advancing.

Get Most Out Of Gasoline Dollars

AUSTIN

With predictions of fuel shortages becoming a real-ity, consumers should be on guard to get the most out of their gasoline dollars, Agriculture Commissioner John C. White cautioned.

"The first thing a driver can do is to make sure that the pump has a Texas De-partment of Agriculture in-spection seal on it," Com-missioner White stated.

The weights and measures inspectors of the Texas De-partment of Agriculture are responsible for making un-announced checks on gaso-line pumps to encourage pump owners to keep them in proper working order. "But there are several precau-tions the consumer should take," Commissioner White said.

A good way to check the accuracy of the pump price and gallon computer is to note the price when the pump has dispensed 10 gallons of gas. If the price is 36.9 cents per gallon, the comput-er should register $3.69 when the 10 - gallon mark rolls around.

Also if the capacity of the gasoline tank on the car is only 18 gallons and the pump reads 20 gallons, the pump may not have been reset to zero, or it may be malfunc-tioning.

The date of the latest in-spection appears on the seal. "If you suspect that the gauge is incorrect, notify the dis-trict office of the Texas Department of Agriculture immediately," Commis-sioner White said. The sta-tion is in violation of weights and measures laws if the pumps are inaccurate.

Commissioner White also advised the consumer to make sure the attendant reads the right pump, espe-cially at rush hours. This also means checking the credit card sales ticket.

A gas tank cap accident-ally left at the station also adds dollars to gasoline ex-penses and replacement costs. Make sure the at-tendant replaces the cap.

Any irregularities in gaso-line sales should be report-ed to the Consumer Services Division, Texas Department of Agriculture, Austin 78711, or to the district offices lo-cated in Lubbock, Odessa, Stephenville, Tyler, Hous-ton, San Antonio, or Pharr. A free pamphlet, "Protect-ing Your Gasoline Dollars," is available from the Aus-tin office.

Folklife Festival Planned

Eleven of 26 major ethnic groups in Texas are among the first to sign up for the second annual Texas Folk-life Festival to be produced by the University of Texas Institute of Texan Cultures, September 6-9 at their 13 and 1/2 acre HemisFair site in San Antonio.

Early - bird participants represent the Lebanese, Anglo, Czech, German, Italian, Japanese, Polish, Negro, Scottish, Wendish and Greek Texans.

Six area festivals -- the Albany Fandangle, East Texas Gilmer Yamboree, Hallettsville State Domino Tournament, Bulverde Schuetzenfest, New Braunfels Wursthof and San Antonio Grek Funstival -- have signed for the Texas Party.

According to festival manager O. T. Baker, all 26 major ethnic groups and many area festivals will participate in the state-wide celebration of traditional Texas food, fun and festivities.

The first folklife festival last September drew 63,565 and was put on by 2,163 participants from 102 towns.

A colorful folder, produced by the Institute, outlines many spectator activities and spotlights and historic music, dances, foods, games, contests, costumes, arts and crafts of Texan culture.

New for 1973 is the Bulverde Schuetzenfest, a demonstration of the loading and shooting of old musket-type guns. The Schuetzenfest had its origins when German Shooting Societies began in Texas in the mid-1800's to train men in shooting, hunting, and self-defense. The Bulverde Schuetzenfest continues this traditional source of relaxing and social contact.

Briscoe Cites Safety Project

Governor Dolph Briscoe cited Texas' Alcohol Safety Action Projects, including the Central Texas ASAP, and asked for the support of all Texas citizens in the state's programs for the traffic safety, reports William J. McCaffrey, Project Director of CTASAP.

In the "Traffic Safety Report", newsletter from the Governor's Office of Traffic Safety, Governor Briscoe said, "Effective traffic safety efforts deserve the support of every citizen of Texas and my administration considers traffic safety to be of the highest priority."

He also pointed out, in talking about the ASAP programs in Houston, Dallas, San Antonio and Central Texas, that Texas is a "leader among the states in programs of this type," reports McCaffrey.

In his statement, the Governor also added his support to the National Safety Council's Defensive Driving Course as an effective way to combat the waste of lives and property which results from traffic accidents. The Defensive Driving Course is now being offered to the 7 counties served by the Central Texas Council of Governments and the Alcohol Safety Action Project.

The Governor indicated his desire for strengthened drunk driving legislation, including laws that would curb the habitual offender. Central Texas, and other Texas ASAP's, all work in support of improved legislation as an integral part of their activities.

The Central Texas Alcohol Safety Action Project, which is sponsored by the Central Texas Council of Governments, is the only ASAP in an area combining rural, urban and military population.

Bacon At Its Best

The secret to successful bacon cookery is low heat. Place the meat in a cold skillet and separate the slices as they begin to cook so that each slice is flat in the pan. Continue cooking over low heat, turning the slices often, until they are browned evenly on both sides. Remove the slices to drain on absorbent paper.

Saladette Is New Tomato

The TAMU Saladette, a new tomato line designed to meet changing consumer preferences and to boost Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and is being released for major commercial plantings.

Dr. Jarvis E. Miller, Experiment Station director emphasized that research horticulturist Paul Leeper of the Experiment Station at Weslaco has spent eight years developing the new tomato variety.

"The new tomato is ideal for salads. And fruit quality and yields produced by the Saladette are better than existing fresh market varieties. The tomato will set fruit under a wider range of temperatures than existing commercial varieties, enabling growers to market fruit a month to six weeks earlier in the fall and a month later in the summer," Miller explained.

The new variety has been favorably received by consumers in pre-market tests, conducted by the station's marketing economics staff, and could serve to make fresh tomato production in South Texas profitable again, Leeper added.

Consumers put their stamp of approval on the Saladette during pre-market tests last season, and apparently were pleased with the somewhat smaller than regular hamburger-sized tomatoes which they found to be just as red, flavorful and juicy. Chain store buyers also heralded the tomato last season, the plant breeder explained.

A major economic asset of the new variety is that can be machine harvested. Growers also like the small vine and early-maturing characteristics and bulk-handling potential because it fills a slot in the fall market when supplies are limited.
